

SDGs4U Toolbox COMMUNITY

Here is where your SDG journey begins

COMMUNITY

In the Community booklet, we discussed the notion of a learning organization. We've given tips for creating your learning community for the SDGs. How to bring it to life?

It is not a question of finding the best project for the SDGs and carrying it out collectively so that it can be deployed. It is about getting micro communities to work together to develop our ability to learn for the SDGs, but also to transfer knowledge.

Our shared challenge: develop skills to build a viable, livable, enviable world.

That is to say, develop our power to act for the SDGs.

Is there anything better than a tree to help us?

SDG Community tree

freepik

BRANCHES

Our micro communities and how they interconnect and enrich each other. 5 people max. per micro-community. For the themes you can start from the 5 pillars or more cross-cutting themes such as inclusion, circular economy, food... Each will have its problem, its experiences capitalized in a summary sheet and its actions means.

TRUNC

what we are, how we learn. What is the added value of this learning community? How do we want to learn together?

ROOTS

What motivates us, why we are building this SDG community. Sometimes it helps to dig deep to find the right roots. The 5 whys method can perhaps help: ask 5 consecutive times "why?" and find your roots!

Organize work sessions with your stakeholders to build your tree

Interconnect and learn

Now you can organize circles of varied interactions between your branches (pairs, group, all / different modes of learning, pedagogical engineering, peer coaching...) with regards of SDGs.

Keep focus on your SDG community roots, the added value and the SDG criterion (interdependent, universal, measurable).

NOW SHARE IT!

POSTPONE . . .

Postpone your SDG community tree :
Mind map, pictures, drawings...

SHARE . . .

You can now share your “SDG community tree” with the community of SDGs4U

START . . .

Start discovering and discussing about the SDG communities !

WELL DONE, YOU HAVE NOW FINISHED YOUR SDGS4U JOURNEY. Let's make it happen!

